CONTEST

THE KENTUCKIAN'S contest in termines by a vote of its paid subscribers who are entitled to the benefit of being the ugliest man in the county.

CHARLIE SMITHSON, of Christian county, will close at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. The contest has been waged for five months and has aroused wide spread interest. There are five leading contestants, who have received strong support. Mr. Chas. W. Smithson is a prominent Longview farmer, who has enlisted the active support of many of his neighbors and other friends all over the county. His picture is shown on this page and it will be admitted by even his rivals that he would not run well in a beauty contest. He is in the lead in this the last exhibit of strength

KENTUCKIAN

RESULTS TELL.

There Can be No Doubt About the Results in Hopkinsville.

Results tell the tale. All doubt is removed. The testimony of a Hopkinsville citizen.

Can be easily investigated.

What better proof can be had? Mrs. W. L. Johnson, of 615 Jesup avenue, says: "My husband suffered for several years with kidney complaint which made its presence known by a most severe aching in his back and which often became so bad especially in the morning when rising or on occasions when he was obliged to do considerable stooping or lifting, that he could scarcely move about. It occurred to him while reading an advertisement in our local papers about Doan's Kidney Pills that they might at least give him some relief, and acting on the thought he went to Thomas & Trahern's drug store and got a box. The treatment proved the merits of the remedy. The aches and pains were relieved and the other symptoms disappeared. I have the doctor's recommendation to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and am confident that in every case they will do all that is represented for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Telegraphic Typewriting.

The post office telegraphic department have been experimenting for some time between Glasgow and London with a typewriter, an electrical instrument which, attached at the receiving end of the wire, delivers messages transmitted by the Wheatstone system at a rate of upwards of 100 words per minute, typewritten in ordinary fashion on folio sheets. The experiments are said to have been attended by complete success.

Speculative.

The desire to "get rich quick" leads many otherwise conservative men and women into all kinds of speculative ventures, many of which turn out disastrously. There is absolutely no speculation or rise attending the use of Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to give satisfaction in all cases of constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred troubles. Ask your druggist. If he does not keep it, send his name to Pepsin Syrup Co., Moccasin, Ill., and they will send you a sample bottle free.

To Export Sugar.

The sugar planters' organization of Mexico City will soon formulate a scheme for promoting the exportation of surplus sugar to England and the continent. It has been agreed to export 20 per cent. of the product.

My boy when four years old was taken with colic and cramps in his stomach. I sent for the doctor and he injected morphine, but the child kept getting worse. The doctor gave me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

strong with the lady subscribers. He commanded a strong support from the first and is still confident that the final count will show him a winner.

Mr. S. S. Spicer, who is third, is a well known citizen of the Southern portion of the county, who has received nearly 2,000 votes and has made a most creditable race.

Mr. J. P. Meacham also started out well, but found himself unable to hold front rank in the lively race

NEW YORK MILLIONAIRES.

There are in New York city to-day, according to the World, 1,320 millionaires, as against 291 twenty years ago and 25 in 1853. There were no millionaires in the city 100 years ago. The first person to reach that distinction was John Jacob Astor, who became a millionaire about the year 1820. Six years before that the richest man in the city was Isaac Claiborn, who swore that he was worth $750,000.

In 1830 there were five millionaires in New York, as attested by Walter Barrett, who published a book on the subject in 1862 and who was personally acquainted with the five men about whom he wrote. They were John Jacob Astor, Robert Lenox, John G. Carter, Stephen Whitney and Nathaniel Prime. Cornelius Vanderbilt was at that time struggling hard with his ferryboat business, but had not reached the dignity of a millionaire.

John Jacob Astor made his money from furs and real estate, much of the latter being still held by his descendants of the present day. Nathaniel Prime was in his younger days a coachman. Then he became a broker and banker. After amassing a fortune he committed suicide because he feared misfortune might overtake him and that he might die in the alms-house.

In those days the city limits extended no further north than Chambers street and fashionable residences were to be found in lower Greenwich and State streets. August Belmont began his career as a banker then and succeeded to the business that had been carried on by J. L. & S. Joseph. This put him in the list of millionaires of 1853.

Among the other millionaires of half a century ago were William B. Astor, worth $5,000,000; John Jacob Astor, $25,000,000; John Hagerly, $1,000,000; Peter Harmony, $1,500,000; Joseph Kernochan, $1,000,000; James Lenox, $3,000,000; Mrs. Jacob Lorillard, $1,500,000; Gouverneur Morris, $1,500,000; Cornelius Vanderbilt, $5,000,000. The estate of M. Peck, consisting of Brooklyn realty was worth a million, and that of S. Van Rensselaer, ten million. A. T. Stewart was worth a little more than a million. Peter G. Stuyvesant was rated at $4,000,000 and Herman Thomas at $1,500,000.

These fortunes were, for the most part, made in trading, banking and the increase in value of real estate. In 1846 a carefully prepared list of the wealthy men of the city showed that there were then 500 men worth $100,000 or more, but only 18 reached the million-dollar mark.

In 1883 there were eight men in New York worth $50,000,000 or more. They were W. W. Astor, Jay Gould, John D. Rockefeller, W. H.

GOES TO JURY.

Jett and White Case Now Nearing An End.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 13.—The last speech was concluded in the Jett and White case and the jury took it at noon. Col. Williams last night placed an extra guard around the jail in which Jett and White are kept as a matter of precaution and on account of some unpleasant rumors which had reached the ears of the soldiers.

Several of the soldiers reported to Capt. McDowell, in command of the company, that for several days and nights past they have seen suspicious characters prowling about the jail premises. Col. Williams would not say that he expected an emergency to arise to require the presence of extra soldiers at the jail, but placed the extra guard on as a preventive measure.

Dick Callahan, a lumberman, was shot and fatally wounded at Ashland while acting the part of peace-maker in a fight between D. L. Preston and Frank Dixon. Both men, it is alleged, shot Callahan while he was acting as a peacemaker.

POWERS TRIAL.

Youtsey is Now On the Stand Telling His Story.

Georgetown, Aug. 13.—Only four witnesses testified in the Caleb Powers trial yesterday, but some strong evidence was brought out by the State, and the defendant's evidence was not so strong. The positive statements made by those who testified. Henry Youtsey will be introduced to-day and is expected to enter more fully into the details of the conspiracy to murder Gov. Goebel. Nothing has been heard from the missing Commonwealth's witness, Henry Broughton. Youtsey's examination and cross-examination will last two days and the State will close its case shortly after his testimony is concluded.

HISTORIC GAVEL.

has a Notable Record in the Cause of Liberty.

The father of Greater New York, Grand Old Man, as the New York Times styles him, Andrew H. Green, presided at the ceremonies in the tavern, used a gavel that is now in the cause of liberty. It was used by Dr. W. O. McDowell and first used in the tavern at the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as president, April 30, 1889. On that occasion the National Society of Sons of American revolution was organized. It was due to Dr. McDowell that organization included daughters as well as sons. The same gavel was a year later, when the "D. A. R." were formed into a separate society. It has "presided" at these occasions: Centennial of the adoption of constitutional government by the United States; centennial of the fall of the Bastille; centennial of the birth of the Republic of France; hundredth anniversary of the compact; centennial of freedom of press in Hungary; first anniversary of the Pan-American congress; hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America; Fourth of July celebration at the world's fair, when the flag of universal liberty and peace first floated, etc.

HIDDEN TREASURE.

of Notorious Australian Bushrangers Await the Lucky Finder.

There can be no doubt that there is a treasure in Australia. In the fifty many lucky gold diggers, returned from Ballarat and Bendigo, were killed, and sometimes murdered by bushranger desperadoes of the gold. A number of government coaches laden with large amounts of gold, and accompanied by mounted troopers—were also overrun by these lawless gangs. Only comparatively small amount of this treasure was recovered. One notorious bushranger, Capt. Melville, a native of Nottingham, boasted on his escape from the Melbourne jail that he had £30,000 worth of treasure so "planted" that nobody would be able to find it. More than 40 years have passed since his death, and though there have been many searches between Geelong and Ballarat, the scene of the captain's operations, his treasure still remains undiscovered. The other day a dying criminal confessed that he was concerned in the robbery of a gold escort from Ballarat in the fifties, and that the order was "planted" under the floor of a restaurant in Geelong. The place is now a printing office, and the police are engaged in digging operations.—London Chronicle.

A SLIP OF THE TONGUE.

Made by Senator Frye While Presiding Recently.

Slips of language now and then occur in the senate to lend amusement to the usually dignified proceedings of that august body of legislators. Recently Senator Frye, president pro tem. of the senate, when presiding, desired to dispose of the Vest resolution providing for free anthracite coal by referring it to the committee on finance, says the Washington Star. The purpose of this resolution was carried in the legislation recently adopted placing anthracite on the free list without restriction, so that the Vest resolution could serve no purpose by continuing to retain its privileged place before the senate. The chair on such occasions either asks unanimous consent to refer the resolution or asks if there is objection to its reference. Senator Frye addressed the senate, saying:

"Is there unanimous consent to referring the Vest resolution to the committee on finance?"

He looked over the senate and there being no response continued, under the impression that he had asked if there was any objection to the proposition:

"The chair hears none, and the resolution is so referred."

Unusual.

Congressman Moon, of Tennessee, was once a judge in that state. The state's attorney of his district was lax in attention to duty, but endeavored to make it up in talk and impressive manner. One day the district attorney arose to speak on a collateral question. "Your honor," said he, "I should like careful attention, for I am going to talk hard common sense." Judge Moon turned to the sheriff and said: "Mr. Sheriff, please preserve the strictest order so the bar and spectators may hear everything the attorney says, for he promises to give us a most radical innovation."

Dysentery Cured Without the Aid of a Doctor.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux (dysentery), says Mr. T. A. Phillips, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by C. K. Wily.

A Worm Killer.

J. A. J. Montgomery, Paxico, Wayne Co., Mo., writes: "I have little twin girls, who have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried everything to relieve them which failed until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them, the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was only relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness. 25c at R. C. Hardwick's.

State College of Kentucky.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State College) College of Kentucky, offers the following courses of study, viz: Agriculture, Horticulture, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Mechanical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical, Engineering, Electrical, Civil Engineering, Civil Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post graduate studies are also provided, leading each to a Master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty numbers nearly fifty professors and instructors.

COUNTY APPOINTMENTS receive tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and lights, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses.

The laboratories and museums are large, well-equipped, comprehensive and modern.

The legislature appropriated $60,000 for a college home for young women and $30,000 for drill hall and gymnasium for men. The latter is completed and in use. The former will be ready for occupancy in October.

Military tactics and science are fully provided for as required by Congress.

Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college to supply. Last year the matriculation list was 604.

Summer schools are provided for pedagogy, engineering and instruction in science.

Specialists with necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. The State College of Kentucky, though bearing hitherto the title of College, is the only institution in the commonwealth doing, in any proper sense, university work.

The completion of the college home for young women will provide facilities for good board and lodging. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath rooms and room for physical culture. It will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

An opportunity is afforded to them of a thorough education in Classics, Modern Languages, Literature, Science, Mathematics, Logic, Metaphysics, History and Political Economy. No other institution in the State offers the advantages for the education of women at all demands. The college, offered by the State College of Kentucky.

For catalogue, methods of obtaining appointments, information regarding courses of study, and terms of admission apply to JAMES K. PATTERSON, Ph.D., LL.D., or to D. C. FRANKS, Bus. Manager, Lexington, Ky.

Full term begins Sept. 7, 1903

Mrs. W. L. Johnson, of 615 Jessup avenue, says: "My husband suffered for several years with kidney complaint which made its presence known by a most severe aching in his back and which often became bad especially in the morning when rising or on occasions when he was obliged to do considerable stooping or lifting, that he could scarcely move about. It occurred to him while reading an advertisement in our local papers about Doan's Kidney Pills that they might at last give him some relief, and acting on the thought he went to Thomas & Co. The treatment proved the merits of the remedy. The aches and pains were relieved and the other symptoms disappeared. I have the best of reasons to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and am confident that in every case they will do all that is represented for them."

Telegraphic Typewriting.

The post office telegraphic department have been experimenting for some time between Glasgow and London with a typewriter, an electrical instrument which, attached at the receiving end of the wire, delivers messages transmitted by the Wheatstone system at a rate of upwards of 160 words per minute, typewritten in ordinary fashion on folio sheets. The experiments are said to have been attended by complete success.

Speculative.

The desire to "get rich quick" leads many otherwise conservative men and women into all kinds of speculative ventures, many of them of a disastrous nature. There is absolutely no speculation or rise attending the use of Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin, which is a natural and reliable remedy in all cases of constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred troubles. Ask your druggist. If he cannot supply, send address to Pepsin Syrup Co., Monticello, Ill., and they will send you a sample bottle free.

NEW YORK MILLIONAIRES.

None a Century Ago, But Over This

Number of Millionaires in New York—
In 1860 24
In 1880 34
In 1900 100

There are in New York city to-day, according to the World, 1,320 millionaires, as against 294 twenty years ago and 25 in 1863. There were no millionaires in the city 100 years ago. The first person to reach that distinction was John Jacob Astor, who became a millionaire about the year 1820. Six years before that the richest man in the city was Isaac Clarkson, who swore that he was worth $750,000.

In 1830 there were five millionaires in New York, as attested by Walter Barrett, who published a book on the subject in 1862 and who was personally acquainted with the five men about whom he wrote. They were John Jacob Astor, Robert Lenox, John B. Coster, Stephen Whitwell and Nathaniel Prime. Cornelius Vanderbilt was at that time struggling hard with his ferryboat business, but had not reached the dignity of a millionaire.

John Jacob Astor made his money from furs and real estate, much of the latter being still held by his descendants of the present day. Nathaniel Prime was in his younger days a coachman. Then he became a broker and banker. After amassing a fortune he committed suicide because he feared misfortune might overtake him and that he might die in the almshouse.

In those days the city limits extended no further north than Chambers street and fashionable residences were to be found in lower Greenwich and State streets. August Belmont began his career as a banker then and succeeded in the business that had been carried on by J. L. & S. Joseph. This put him in the list of millionaires of 1863.

Among the other millionaires of half a century ago were William B. Astor, worth $5,000,000; John Jacob Astor, $25,000,000; John Hagertry, $1,000,000; Peter Harmony, $1,500,000; Joseph Kerochane, $1,000,000; James Lenox, $3,000,000; Mrs. Jacob Lorillard, $3,000,000; Governor Morris, $1,500,000; and Cornelius Vanderbilt, $5,000,000. The estate of M. Peck, consisting of Brooklyn realty was worth a million, and that of S. Van Rensselaer, ten million. A. T. Stewart was worth a little more than a million. Peter G. Stuyvesant was rated at $4,000,000 and Herman Thorne at $1,500,000.

These fortunes were, for the most part, made in trading, banking and the increase in value of real estate. In 1840 a carefully prepared list of the wealthy men of the city showed that there were then 500 men worth $100,000 or more, but only 18 reached the million-dollar mark.

In 1883 there were eight men in New York worth $50,000,000 or more. They were W. W. Astor, Jay Gould, John D. Rockefeller, W. H. Vanderbilt, H. M. Flagler, John I. Blair, Russell Sage and C. P. Huntington.

At the present time Mr. Rockefeller is estimated to be worth well toward a billion dollars. Famous among other present-day millionaires are J. P. Morgan, Andrew Carnegie, J. A. Astor, W. K. Vanderbilt, Russell Sage, H. M. Flagler, W. A. Clark, William Rockefeller, W. C. Whitney, John D. Archibald, D. O. Mills, Mrs. Hetty Green, James Stillman and the members of the Gould family.

Of the 1,320 millionaires in New York, 356 are merchants, 113 are bankers, 134 real estate owners, 69 railroad owners, 37 mine owners, and the rest are manufacturers, shipowners, tanners, brewers and professional men.

New York is the richest city in the world. Its aggregated wealth is more than a billion dollars greater than that of London. Its per capita wealth is more than twice as much as London's. These facts are more notable when it is considered that New York covers less than half the area of London and that the latter has been for hundreds of years the greatest trade center on earth. London exceeds New York in population, but 127,000 of its people are paupers. It exceeds New York in the number of houses, but thousands of them are holes more miserable than the worst of New York tenement houses. Paris is the third city in the world in wealth and population.

Judge George DuRelle is to be chairman of the Republican campaign committee.

Rev. David Bruner, of Harrodsburg, now 94 years old, has married 4,497 couples.

The editor of the Glasgow Times has realized in August, 1903, what people tried to make him understand in August, 1902.

Mrs. Astor has given a swell ball in which she raised the "400" to 800, and all Newport is rigging with the news.

Pope Pius fainted one day this week, while saying mass. He also took a walk in the garden. All in favor of dropping the subject of popes for a while, say Aye. The Ayes have it.

The G. A. R. will fight the confirmation of Roosevelt's pet, Gen. Leonard Wood, promoted over the heads of many heroes of the civil war. Hundreds of officers displaced are furious over his repeated promotions at their expense.

Revolutionists are doing some bloody fighting against the Turkish government, and in a recent fight 150 insurgents were killed, but the insurrection is increasing in strength.

A New York man celebrated the death of his wife by giving a big blowout to 800 of his friends, at which 400 gallons of wine were used. He said she made him miserable for 23 years and he waited until the 25th anniversary of his marriage to celebrate her death.

Thos. A. Edison, who, judged by his achievements, is the greatest of living men, shows signs of failing health, resulting from his scientific work. His eyesight is impaired, and lumps, supposed to be tumors, are forming in his stomach.

Consul General Guenther, of Germany, has recommended that the "zebrula" be spared the mule. Another blow at the negro's rights, by attacking his best friend. Next thing some Northerner will be trying to abolish the watermelon.

The number of deaths resulting from the panic in an underground passage in Paris, France, will exceed 100. Already 84 dead bodies have been taken out of the tunnel. An alarm of fire caused the fatal crush of people on the electric cars.

The Paducah Register has become convinced that the I. C. owns the T. C. It says: "Doubters in Tennessee are becoming convinced that a strong company is behind the building of the Tennessee Central road, which is rapidly making its way from Nashville to Clarksville and on to Hopkinsville. Impaired Digestion

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be neglected.

The weakness after eating, fits of nervous headache, soreness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker.

Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overcome by which strengthens the whole digestive system line, until lately this was steadily disputed in Tennessee, but now other impressions are lodged even in that state. In another year, when the great I. C. system is whirling its cars over the Central from one end to the other—that is from Marion, Ky., to Harrison, Tenn.—the people will wonder why they ever doubted this would be the case. The I. C. has long desired to go into the Tennessee capital and this desire is now all but an accomplished fact.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Miss Mamie De Criss, a white convict in the Georgia penitentiary, was whipped by the warden, being struck twenty-five or thirty lashes with the leather strap. She was assigned to work as a domestic in the warden's family and his reason for whipping her was that she spoke disrespectfully to his wife. After whipping her, Warden Algood forced her to go into the corn field with negro women and hoe corn until her back was blistered. The entire press of the South is condemning the whipping and Gov. Terrell has ordered an investigation, that will doubtless result in removing Algood.

Some of the Democratic papers are industriously advertising the fact that Belknap is going to have more money than he will know what to do with. As advertising always pays, they are unwittingly doing the Republicans a great service.

Better Than Gold.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female trouble; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick.

Frankfort Gets a Rehearing.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 11.—Judge Polsgrove today granted a rehearing of the case in which the State secured judgment against the city of Frankfort for $12,000, alleged to be due for taxes. The city owns the opera house.

Escaped an Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Higgins of Melbourne, Fla., writes: "My doctor told me I had consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on my feet and recovering and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by R. C. Hardwick Druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

PORTERS UNION.

Propose To Abolish Tipping System—Higher Wages To Be Demanded.

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 12.—A sleeping car porters' union has been organized for the purpose of abolishing the "tipping" system. An application will be made for a charter affiliating with the American Federation of Labor. Those present at the meeting declared that the company or individual which paid a man such a low wage that he was compelled to ask for and receive tips should be forced to advance the scale.

BABY BALL.

Jackson Team Walks Off the Grounds Following Game.

On Wednesday They Refuse to Go to the Bat and Another Game Goes.

Monday's game of Ball between Hopkinsville and Paducah was a most exciting one and was won by Hopkinsville, the score being 8 to 6. Jackson opened here Tuesday for a series of three games, but forfeited two of them to the locals by the score of 9 to 0.

The Jackson nine put up the baby act to a Queen's taste. On Tuesday, when the last half of the seventh inning began, the score stood 2 to one in favor of the local team. Lynskey knocked a two bagger. Parris followed, knocking a grounder toward third base. Jackson's third baseman stopped the ball and attempted to touch Lynskey as he was going from second to third. The latter bent his body, taking a step to one side. Umpire Bassett called him safe at third. The Jackson boys demurred at the decision and, refusing to play longer, left the field. The game, of course, was then given to the Hopkinsvilles by the score of 9 to 0. Up to this time the game was the closest and most exciting ever witnessed on the diamond here.

On Wednesday when the game was called, Jackson refused to put a man to the bat when Umpire Bassett called for a batter. Three balls were pitched over the plate and "three strikes and out" was called. This ended the game. Jackson again forfeiting to Hopkinsville by the score of 9 to 0.

The third of the series was scheduled for yesterday afternoon. Cairo arrived here last night for a series with Hopkinsville. The first game will be played this afternoon and the second to-morrow. The third is scheduled for Sunday, but as no Sunday ball is allowed here the teams will play this game in Cairo.

Masterful Circumstances.

CARROLL-SHANKLIN.

Marriage of Well-known Couple in City Wednesday.

Mr. J. W. Carroll and Miss Matie E. Shanklin were married in the Cumberland Presbyterian church Wednesday night. Dr. W. Nourse officiated.

The event was witnessed by only a few of the most intimate friends of the young people.

The groom is a valued employee of the Crescent Milling Company and his bride is a daughter of Mr. W. H. Shanklin. Both are well known and quite popular. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll are stopping with the bride's parents, on East Ninth street, for the present.

GOOD-BY TO MULE.

Will Be Superseded by Cross Between Horse and Zebra. Experiments.

Washington, Aug. 12.—"The day, of the mule are numbered. Within the next few centuries his melodious voice will have been stilled forever." This is the prophecy of United States Consul General Richard Guenther, at Frankfort, Germany, who sends an official report to the State Department on the chances of the zebrula, a cross between a horse and zebra, superseding the mule. He says of the qualification of the zebrula:

"German papers contend that it has been demonstrated that the mule, the cross between the horse and donkey, is inferior to the cross between the horse and zebra."

"Formerly the opinion prevailed that the zebra was almost extinct. The opening up of Africa, particularly the eastern part, reveals these fine animals in large numbers.

Compared with horses and cattle, they possess peculiar advantages, as they are immune against the very dangerous horse disease of Africa and also against the deadly "tsetse." The question was, therefore, raised whether the zebrula could take the place of the mule commonly used in the tropics.

"The greatest credit with reference to the solution of this problem is due to Prof. Ewart, who has been trying since 1895 to produce crosses between horses and zebras, with a view to developing an animal superior in every respect to the mule.

"Prof. Ewart produced crosses from different breeds of mares and zebras stallions of the Buchnell kind.

The offspring is called zebrula, which, on account of its form and general bodily condition, especially the hardness of the hoofs, is especially adapted for all transport work heretofore performed by mules. The zebrula is much livelier than the mule, and at least as intelligent. The zebrula stripes are often well preserved, while the undertone of the skin is generally that of the mother. A full grown zebrula is fourteen hands high and the girth circumference about one hundred and sixty centimeters (sixty three inches).

"The experiments so far have been so successful that it is predicted that the zebrula during the present century, will completely supersede the mule."

Hot weather saps the vital energy and makes the hardest workmen feel lazy. To maintain strength and energy, use Prickly Ash Bitters. It is the friend of industry. R. C. Hardwick, special agent.

HAY FEVER VICTIMS

Have a Summer Resort in Michigan.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—Louisville is well represented in the Western Hay Fever Association, which has begun its annual pilgrimage to the Northern lake regions away from the distressing influence of the rag weed.

The hay fever colony is such an important one that it has made a permanent location at St. Ignace, Mich., where a tract of land containing twenty-two acres with improvements costing $7,000 has been leased for ninety-nine years. The association has made such terms with the city of St. Ignace that not a dollar of indebtedness has been created against the members.

The Seeker is the name of a publication by the Western Hay Fever Association.

In Memorium.

(From the Franklin Journal.)

In memory of Mrs. Mattie Hester Nance, who died August 8th, 1902. In the past year, heaven has kept a jewel taken from our home. God knew best when he took dear sister from us, yet 'tis so hard to give her up. I feel each day as if she will surely come again, but the void cannot be filled. Her chair still sits at the table. I realize it will vacant be, yet it is so much comfort to know our home was once graced by her sweet presence. How I long for her tender words and bright smiles she always had for me. Her guiding influence over my past life is so deeply planted in my nature that it can never die in the future and this I value more than all things. She came first with me on earth and is now my "Guardian Angel" in heaven.

A patient christian life was hers, clouded for years by suffering, but she proved sunshine, even in the darkest cloud, and to the last spoke comforting words to her loved ones. "To know her is to love," was said by many.

Often, in day dreams, I wonder, To a green hill, where asleep, Lies my dear and only sister, Near a river dark and deep.

There the blue-bells grow and blossom; All around their petals fall, Sending fragrance through the silence.

Answering the breezes' call, There the birds sing sweetest music.

And the rivers echoes send: There no shadows ever linger. For the sunbeams wait and bend.

MR. HARDWICK DEAD.

Brother of Dr. Hardwick Passes Away at Hartford.

Mr. W. G. Hardwick, of Hartford, one of the most prominent men in Ohio county, died of flux Tuesday morning, after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Hardwick was forty-five years of age and was years ago elected circuit clerk of Ohio county and held that office until two years ago, when he went into the insurance business. He is survived by three brothers. They are Messrs. Charles and Henry Hardwick, of Memphis, and Dr. R. C. Hardwick, of this city. Mr. Hardwick married a sister of Mr. Thomas Lea, of Owensboro, who with one daughter survives him.

Dr. Hardwick and family attended the funeral, which took place Wednesday at Hartford.

DEFENDS LYNCHING.

Only Remedy for Assaults on Women of South.

Mob Law Terrorizes the Negro Criminal and Prevents a Carnival of Crime.

Chautauqua, N.Y., Aug. 11.—Unique among all summer gatherings is the "mob conference," now in progress here. The increase of mob spirits shown by feuds, lynchings, riots, assassinations and other lawless happenings gives great importance to this conference. Among today's speakers was John Temple Graves, of Atlanta, Ga., who spoke on "The Mob Spirit of the South." He defended lynchlaw as a remedy for the crime of rape, holding that though lynching is a crime, it is justified by the crime which provokes it, and will never be discontinued until that crime is eliminated. The remedy for lynching must be the elimination of the crime of rape, and this, he maintained, could be done only by the separation of the two races in the United States.

"They problem of the hour is not how to prevent lynching in the South, but the larger question: How shall we destroy the crime which always has and always will provoke lynching? The answer which the mob returns to this vital question is already known. The mob answers it with the rope, the bullet, and sometimes, God save us, with the torch. And the mob is practical; its theory is effective to a large degree; the mob is today the sternest, the strongest and the most effective restraint that the age holds for the control of the rape fiend."

Held in Check.

The lynching does not exterminate the rapist, Mr. Graves contended, but he holds him mightily in check. As a sheer, cold, patent fact, he said, the mob stands today as the most potential bulwark between the women of the South and such a carnival of crime as would infuriate the world and precipitate the annihilation of the negro race. The masses of the negro, he held, are not afraid of death coming in a regular way. They love display, and the spectacular element of a trial and execution appeal to their imaginations.

Expediting the processes to the law would not be adequate to eliminate lynching. The repeal of the amendment and the establishment of the negroes' inferiority in law and society, said Mr. Graves, though desirable, are not sufficient "for the negro," he added, "is a thing of the senses, and with this race and with all similar races the desire of the senses must be restrained by the terror of the senses, if possible under the law."

Must Separate Races.

No influence of suppression so mighty and effective could be brought to bear as a law making amputation the penalty for the crime of rape, but this, like Curfew edicts, separate laws for white and black, or the treatment of the crime of rape as separate, and outside of all other codes, are but expedients, he maintained; there is no real remedy but one. No statute will permanently solve this problem. Religion does not solve it. Education complicates it. Politics complicates it. "The truth which lies beyond and above all these temporizing expedients," he concluded "is that separation is the logical, the inevitable, the only solution of the great problem of the races."

Only a Mask.

Many are not being benefited by the summer vacation as they should be. Now, notwithstanding much outdoor life, they are little if any stronger than they were. The tan on their faces is darker and makes them look healthier, but it is only a mask. They are still nervous, easily tired, upset by trifles, and they do not eat nor sleep well. What they need is what tones the nerves, perfects digestion, creates appetite and makes sleep refreshing and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pupils and teachers generally will find the chief purpose of the vacation best subserved by this great medicine which, as we know, "builds up the whole system."

THOUSANDS OF FAIR WOMEN HERALD PRAISES FOR PE-RU-NA.

[Catarrhal Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration Makes Invalids of More Women Than All Other Diseases Combined.]

Systemic catarrh causes nervousness, poor appetite, tired feelings. Peru-na cures catarrh wherever located.

LETTERS FROM WOMEN.

Miss Anna Prescott's Letter. Miss Anna Prescott, in a letter from 215 South Seventh street, Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "I was completely used up last fall, my appetite had failed and I felt weak and tired all the time. My druggist advised me to try Peru-na and the relief I experienced after taking one bottle was truly wonderful. I continued its use for five weeks, and am glad to say that my complete restoration to health was a happy surprise to myself as well as to my friends."—Anna Prescott.

Peru-na a True Friend to Women. Miss Florence Allan, a beautiful Chicago girl, writes the following from 75 Walton Place: "As a tonic for a worn out system, Peru-na stands at the head in my estimation. Its effects are truly wonderful in rejuvenating the entire system. I keep it on hand all the time, and never have that 'tired feeling,' as a few doses always makes me feel like a different woman."—Florence Allan.

Peru-na will be found to effect an immediate and lasting cure in all cases of systemic catarrh. It acts quickly and beneficially on the diseased mucous membranes, and with healthy mucous membranes the catarrh can no longer exist.

Peru-na Makes You Feel Like a New Person. Miss Marie Coats, a popular young woman of Appleton, Wis., and President of the Appleton Young Ladies' Club, writes: "When that languid, tired feeling comes over you, and your food no longer tastes good, and small annoyances irritate you, Peru-na will make you feel like another person inside of a week. I have now used it for three seasons, and find it very valuable and efficacious."—Miss Marie Coats. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

YOUNGEST STAR.

Newest and Most Brilliant of Luminaries.

Only One of Her Kind Alive—Only Bareback Somersault Rider Before the Public.

Elsie St. Leon is a little lady who still wears her hair in pigtail style. She is not only young but, extremely pretty. She is not only pretty but she is remarkably intelligent. She is better informed on general topics than a vast majority of women of twice her age, while her manners are those of one who has descended from generations of court and drawing-room life. She is sweet simplicity itself and absolutely free from any sort of affectation.

Elsie St. Leon might be well imagined to be a sweet girl graduate from a preparatory school. Not yet in long dresses she is famous. And fame has not spoiled her. In her class she is at the head. Despite her youth she is at the very head of one of the most difficult of all professions in which a circus rider. But there are circus riders and circus riders. Elsie St. Leon is the only rider of her sex now living who throws somersaults upon the bare back of a swiftly running horse. There have been only three of them in all circus history. She not only does this difficult thing, but does it easily and gracefully, and must be very unlucky when she does not alight squarely upon her feet and maintain her balance.

Elsie St. Leon is one of the star riders of the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Enormous Shows Union, which will exhibit here soon and display the greatest list of star riders that has ever been seen in any show in this country. It numbers no less than twenty-four and the manager makes the astonishing claim that no other show has a rider that is the equal to any one of them. And the little girl is at the top of the list. If we are to believe the claims of the manager of the shows the greatest rider of her sex who has ever been seen on a horse is this same modest and pretty little Elsie St. Leon.

She will be here, so will the world famous Diavolo, who loops the loop on a bicycle, positively the most daring and dangerous feat ever attempted: the Aurora Zouaves, best-dressed soldiers in the world: Minton, the one-cycle marvel: twenty-four champion bareback riders, lott clowns and a host of other attractions, when the big show exhibits on Thursday Aug. 27.

The August American Boy.

The third installment of Mrs. Gabrielle E. Jackson's story, "Three Good Cronies," appears in this issue. The cover page consists of a splendid picture of "The Old Swimming Hole." "Captured" by that fine writer for boys, O. L. Harbour, tells how two boys captured an immense serpent belonging to a circus. Some of the other leading contributions in the August number are: "A Voyage on the Snow," by Will Lisenbee; "The Beginning of an Astronomer," "The Washington High School Cadets" with some fine pictures; "The Summer Life of the Roosevelt Children," "Tip's Heroism," "Life on a Man-of-War," "Across Niagara with Blondin," "The Printer's Apprentice," "Something About the America's Bub," "The way to Pitch Real Curves."

There are dozens of practical helpful departments which will encourage and inspire boys to do things. This best boys' paper in the world is absolutely clean in every respect and has won the confidence and esteem of 110,000 families who received it each month regularly. Its wonderful success is well deserved.

DEMOCRATS ARE SPLIT

As Result of the Taylor Lovett Contest in the Second Judicial District.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 11.—Chairman C. W. Morrison, of the Second Judicial District Committee, has written a letter to Secretary Geo. S. Edwards, of Marshall county, the other member of the committee, calling the committee to meet here next Saturday for the purpose of arranging the primary and nominate a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney. This is the ongrowth of the Taylor-Lovett contest. Taylor alleging fraud in Marshall, but in the contest Morrison and Edwards deadlocked and the former is now arduously working to get a second primary. It is practically settled that Edwards will be against the local chairman's efforts, in which event Taylor will announce as an independent candidate. The contest has split Democrats in this judicial district.

A RESOURCEFUL MAN.

Planned to Hear Wife's Scolding Before Jollification Instead of After.
"You are home early."

Mrs. Blumer glanced from the clock to her husband in some surprise, as the latter came in, kissed her quietly, sat down, and dined nervously on the table with his fingers.

He here, says London Tit-Bits, the air of a man who was not only about to go into battle, but who had prepared himself for the worst.

"Yes, I am home early," he said,
promptly plunging into his argument, "and I came for that particular purpose to-night, and I am going."

Mrs. Blumer broke off somewhat violently the thread she had been holding between her pretty teeth, as she replied in defensive indignation:

"Well, what of it?"

"It's going to be one of the finest dinners we ever had," said Blumer.
"Some of my old friends, whom I haven't seen for a long time, will be here, and I expect a pleasant evening."

Mrs. Blumer's lips came together firmly and she rose and faced him.

"I know what you mean," she said, sternly. "You are just going in for a man's time of it. You will stay later than is good for you and come home at almost any hour of the morning, and now, like a miserable sneak, you are trying to excuse yourself because."

Mr. Blumer rose and faced her.
"You are wrong," he said, without a quaver. "I purpose, as you say, to go to that dinner, and, what's more,
I shall stay as long as anyone, even if I don't get home until the church bells are ringing. But I didn't take two hours away from a valuable business this afternoon to come home and make any excuses. I am going to have a good time to-night, without a cloud on the horizon, and I came home early, madam, to listen to what you've to say in advance, so that tomorrow morning I can take my much-needed rest without interruption."

A RIOT OF FIGURES.

Recent Astronomy Introduces Us to a Bewildering Calculation.

When astronomers begin playing with figures it is time for people with ordinary heads to stand in amazement. Sir Robert Ball has just amusing himself by proving mathematically that no ray of sun ever escape to infinity. If a drop of water were magnified to the size of the earth one of its atoms would be about as large as a walnut. If this atom, in turn, were swollen to the size of a church, one of its "electrons" would be like a grain of sand. We may figure roughly that it would take about three hundred quadrillion electrons, side by side, to extend an inch. To tell the number that would be contained in a cubic inch would require a row of eiphers extending across two columns of this paper.

Now, says the New York World, comes Sir Robert Ball and informs us that if particles of matter no larger than one of these electrons were magnified 300,000,000 times without coming in range of the most powerful microscope ever made, were scattered through the universe at the rate of every trillion miles, they would capture every ray sent out by our sun within a finite distance.

Of course, the sun itself is stopping a proportionate number of rays from other stars, and the energy so received has the effect of prolonging its life. Without these accessions of force from outside, the sun at the present stage of its career would have been a mere infant of 24,000,000 years old. As it is it has reached the respectable age of a hundred million years, and probably much more.

ALSO HOW THEY MADE IT UP.

ACT I.

(Scene, a drawing room, handsomely furnished. Characters, Mr. Reginald Glover, aged 26, and Miss Mabel Cherry, aged 22. Time four p.m. A small table bearing a silver teapot, two cups and saucers and a plate of thin bread and butter stands near the open fire.)

Mabel—May I give you another cup of tea?

Reginald (rising)—No; I really must not stay any longer.

Mabel—Please do not hurry away. It is very wrong of you.

—your tea is so delicious—but I ought not to; I have promised to meet a man downtown and I should have started long ago.

Mabel—What a conventional excuse! I suppose if I knew the truth you are going to call on some pretty girl.

Reginald (with the utmost sincerity)—Mabel, you ought to know by this time that there is only one pretty girl in the world for me and only one that I care to see.

Mabel (secretly pleased)—What absolute nonsense!

Reginald—Shall I describe her to you?

Mabel—The subject really does not interest me. (She rises from her chair and seats herself on the sofa, where she can catch a glimpse of her pretty reflection in the glass.) Reginald rises also, hesitates for a moment and finally seats herself in the chair she has vacated.) I suppose she is a blonde?

Reginald (looking at her with lary admiration)—Tell you the truth I hardly know the color of her hair. When I am with her I can see nothing but her eyes.

Mabel (with affected scorn)—Blue eyes! I know the type. Go on.

Reginald—Her eyes are black. Yes, certainly they are black and very beautiful. (He rises from his chair to set down his teacup and in an unconscious manner seats himself beside her on the sofa.)

Mabel (gathering up her skirt, with a smile, to make room for him)—Was it necessary to come here by such a circuitous route? But tell me more about this very pretty girl.

(The conversation continues in this strain for some minutes. Finally Reginald reluctantly takes his leave. On reaching the street he suddenly recalls his engagement at the club. He consults his watch and finds he has missed his appointment. He is deliberating what to do when a handsome girl with fair hair and blue eyes passes him. She rings the bell at the house next door and is waiting to be admitted when she turns and recognizes him. It is Mabel's cousin Mildred. She is only going to pay a short call on a mutual friend, Mrs. Rider, and she insists that he shall come in with her and afterward escort her home. He consents. The mutual friend is out, but expected back at any minute. They make themselves comfortable over the fire and wait. Finally they hear some one enter the house. Mabel appears.)

Mabel (looking at the occupants of the room with astonishment)—I beg your pardon. I thought the man said Mrs. Rider was up here. I just ran over. How do you do? (With a charming smile to the cousin.) Please don't disturb yourself. You look so comfortable. Besides, I can't stop. Tell Mrs. Rider I will drop in after dinner.

How well you are looking! (With another charming smile to the cousin.) I always envy you that beautiful hair. Don't blush, Reginald. I was talking to my cousin, not to you. Well, good-by. (Exit before Reginald has a chance to say a word.)

(A period of four months elapses. Mr. Reginald Glover has called frequently on Miss Mabel Cherry. She has unfortunately never been at home. He has written her a note asking when he might see her. No answer. He has written her a letter in case she might think an explanation necessary. No answer. He has sent her a telegram, saying there was some thing he particularly wanted to tell her. No answer. He has sent her some flowers, with an urgent message. No answer. He has passed her on the street on several occasions. Each time she was very much occupied with a companion and did not notice him. He has been broken-hearted. He has grown deeply offended and decided that he does not care for her in the least. It happens that they have both gone to New York for the season.)

ACT II.

(Scene on board an ocean liner about to sail for England. Her decks are crowded with passengers and with friends who have come to see them off. Among others are Mr. Reginald Glover and Miss Mabel Cherry, of Chicago. Mabel is seen talking to a young man.)

Mabel—Now, what has become of your sister?

Young Man—She has gone to her stateroom for a minute. Surely, you don't begrudge me one second alone when I am to be gone two years! Really, you are dreadfully proper. One has to get along with a half-glance, a half-smile, a half-word, a half-minute. But I will do you the justice to say you have been a little more accessible this winter. Last season Reginald Glover—

Mabel—Yes. Well, I don't think we need bring his name into the conversation.

Young Man (stroking his mustache complacently)—He is not exactly in your good books, eh?

Mabel—I am never going to speak to him again. I hate him! Please drop the subject. Dear me, what a crowd of people! I hope you will have a nice crossing.

Young Man (looking around)—I have no doubt I shall. There are plenty of pretty women on board now—but you can tell nothing from that. They are here probably to see people off, all of them, just like that handsome girl across the way.

Mabel—Where? Oh, I see. She is quite nice-looking, isn't she? Why—(She turns suddenly pale.)

Young Man—Talk of angels! It certainly is Reginald Glover. Well, for your sake, I will win all his money from him at poker. I wonder who that girl is? Very attentive of her coming to see him off. What pretty eyes!

Mabel (to herself)—I don't see anything pretty about her eyes. So Reginald is going abroad? I knew he would do something desperate, but I didn't think he would go so far as that. Poor boy! I really have treated him shamefully. Of course, I can't help it. He would have seen anything to admire in Mildred, but he ought not to have deceived me. And he ought not to have taken his dismissal so calmly. I wonder what he is going to do abroad. One meets so many scheming women in Europe and of course in Paris. (She grows a little pale.) Perhaps if I were to try to see good-by to him—I can't bear to see him looking so sad. There is such a thing as carrying a quarrel too far. Not that I would ever speak to him again after the way he treated me, if he wasn't going abroad! But—yes, I must tell him I am sorry. (Aloud to the young man.) Please go and find your sister. The boat will be sailing in a few minutes and I have so much to say to her. I will stay here till you come back. (As the young man dutifully disappears she makes her way toward Reginald. She is conscious of feeling very unhappy and her heart beats tumultuously. Meanwhile Reginald has been engaged in conversation with his sister's college friend, having promised to see her safely off to Europe.)

Reginald—Well, if there is really nothing more that I can do for you I ought to be saying good-by. You are sure to make some nice friends on board and have a good time.

His Sister's Friend—Oh, of course. In fact I have already picked out a girl whom I shall make my particular chum. She has been dreadfully engrossed with a good-looking man, but he's gone now. She looks so sad. See if you do not think she is pretty. She is coming this way.

Reginald (catching sight of Mabel and turning uncomfortably red)—Where? I don't see any pretty girl. Talking to a good-looking man, did you say? (Aside.) I wonder who the devil he was!

His Sister's Friend—Don't you see her? There, just in the middle of the hallway, looking so miserable.

Reginald (taking another surreptitious look at Mabel)—No. I don't see her. (Aside.) What business has she got to look so miserable over some conceited idiot? Not that I care how miserable she is. I don't know why I ever cared for her. I wonder why she is going abroad, though? I would like just to ask her. I should feel happier if we made up before she went. She would hardly refuse to say good-by. (Mabel approaches.)

Reginald (advancing in a hesitating manner)—How do you do, Mabel? (She smiles and they shake hands.) Reginald—I hope it will be a smooth crossing.

Mabel (to herself)—Then he is really going. (Aloud.) Indeed, I hope so. (She feels there is so much to say and she cannot think of a word.)

Reginald (eagerly)—I have been wanting to see you for a long time to explain—

Mabel—Oh, don't let us waste time over that stupid old misunderstanding. It may be so long before we see each other again. Perhaps never. (Tentatively.)

Reginald (to himself)—So she is going away, perhaps forever. I have half a mind to tell her. (Aloud.) Mabel, can I have one word with you alone?

Mabel (to herself)—If I were only quite sure he had forgiven me I wouldn't mind his going away half so much. And then we could write to each other, and when he came back—(She smiles content; he makes his excuses to his sister's college friend and they go away together.)

Mabel (more coldly)—Who is that girl?

(Reginald explains.)

Mabel (somewhat mollified)—Oh, is that all? I thought perhaps—Reginald—Mabel, you know there is only one girl in the world for me. Mabel (rather viciously)—Yes, with blonde hair and blue eyes.

Reginald—Oh, confound your Cousin Mildred! Didn't you receive my letter explaining—

Mabel—Yes. I wasn't going to forgive you—but I will now—

Reginald (rapturously)—Then everything is as it was before?

Mabel—Everything. Oh, Reginald, I am so happy!

(The bugle is sounded. All the visitors begin hurriedly to leave the ship.)

Reginald (shakily)—Well, good-by. Mabel (with tears in her eyes)—Good-by.

Reginald—It may be a long time before we see each other again.

Mabel (sadly)—Yes.

Reginald—Then?

Mabel—In front of everybody! Oh, we mustn't.

Reginald—You shall.

Mabel—Oh—oh, not twice! Reginald, really, you mustn't!

Reginald—One more. Only one more. Good-by, little girl.

Steadfastly—Now, then, please. All visitors off the ship. Look sharp, please.

(They tear themselves apart, and neither daring to look back, run for the gangway. A second later they meet, considerably out of breath, on the dock.)

Both together—Why, I thought you were going?

Reginald—I going? No. But you?

Mabel—Then how dared you speak to me?

Reginald—Nothing would have induced me if I had thought—

Mabel (suddenly remembering)—And how dared you kiss me—and, oh, how can I ever look anyone in the face again?

Reginald (struck with a happy thought)—Let us say we are engaged.

Mabel—I suppose it's the only thing to do.—Chicago Daily News.

CONFUSION OF NAMES.

Keen and Keene, and Johnson and Jonson Are Notable Illustrations.

An evening contemporary has been writing of the distinguished actor Charles "Keene," whose art was other than that of Keen. The slip is natural enough, and coincidence and coincidence of famous names will create confusion in the future, as it has done in the past. We pity the prospective grandsons who will have to disentangle the names of Winston Churchill. They are sure to repeat the mistake of the writer who named Spencer as the author of the "Fairy Queen" and the many others who confuse the Johnson who made a butt of Beswilt with the Jonson who was made a Ben by his parents. Moreover, Lord Chatham and his greater son William made a Pitt in which many tumble. One of the first duties of the mother who gives birth to a possible genius—which is, to say, all mothers—is to give the son a name that none can mistake.

His Luck Was Fatal.

A man in Buenos Ayres became insane from violent emotion, on learning that he had won the big prize in a lottery. He went to a church, drew a revolver, and fired at the priests.

CROWD INCREASING.

Many Names Added to the List This Week.

No Doubt About a Long Train For the Seashore Trip This Time.

A large number of people have been added to the list of Old Point passengers this week and the chances are that the crowd this season will be one of the largest for several years, if not the largest since the inauguration of these popular outings seventeen years ago.

A delegation from Springfield, Tenn., will join the Hopkinsville party at Guthrie and there will be about half a dozen from Cerulean. New names are being added to the various lists from the towns within a radius of 100 miles of this place and when all meet in Louisville, where a special train will be provided, there will surely be a large array of pleasure seekers together. The train will be made up of five Pullman sleepers, two coaches and a baggage car. The mountainous portion of the trip will be made with a double header and where a single engine is used it will be the largest and best in the country, thus securing a good rate of speed with a heavy train of cars.

There will be no stops except where a change of engine is necessary, or where meal points are arranged. The party will dine in Louisville, take supper in Huntington, W. Va., breakfast, August 19, at Charlottesville, and dinner at Old Point. Some will go to N.Y., while others will take side trips to Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Hampton, Portsmouth, Washington City and other places of interest. Tickets will be good until Sept. 2, returning, and stopover will be allowed east of Kanawha Falls.

Farm for Sale.

PROJECTED IMPROVEMENT

That Has Become a Necessity in Hopkins County.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 12.—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Madisonville Traction Company, with headquarters in Louisville, Ky. It was authoritatively given out here yesterday that the company, which has been considering the construction of an electric railroad from this place to Nortonville, Ky., had thoroughly decided in the matter, and that the road was a "sure go." The proposed road is to be about 20 miles in length, beginning at this place and passing through Earlington, Barsley, Morton's Gap, White Plains and Nortonville, all important mining towns of Hopkins county.

FATAL BOLT.

Colored Man Killed by Lightning While at Work.

Hamp Wright, col., was killed by lightning at an early hour Wednesday morning. The negro was in the employ of Russell & Co., contractors, who are constructing the Tennessee Central railroad, and was at work near the city. He was engaged in distributing dirt on a fill as it was hauled in a wagon, when the bolt came. He was killed instantly. Another laborer, who was driving the wagon, was within a few feet of Wright, but was not injured.

Wright was 40 years old and had been in the employ of the contractors for several months. He was a man of family and lived in the southern suburbs of the city.

BROUGHT BACK.

Discharged Patient Returned to Asylum Here.

Sheriff Potter and Deputy Sheriff William Lydon went to Hopkinsville with Ous. Rupertus, a lunatic, who will again be placed in the asylum, says the Paducah Sun.

Rupertus was three years ago adjudged insane and had been discharged, but last week became worse and in such a condition that it was decided he had to be returned to the asylum for treatment. He was formerly a well known printer.

L. & N. DEPOT

Will Be Replaced by an $18,000 Brick Building.

The work of tearing down the old L. & N. freight depot to make room for the new brick building to be erected on the same site, is now in progress. The offices have been transferred to the building on the corner of Sixth and Railroad streets, where the freight business will be conducted until the new building is ready for occupancy, which will probably be about three months.

The new depot will be about 60 feet wide and will extend the full length of the lot from Ninth to Eighth streets. It will be of brick and one story in height except the front on Ninth street which will be two stories, the offices being on the second floor. The entire lower floor will be used for the handling of freight. The front will be of stone and the building will cost $18,000. It will be one of the finest on the Henderson division.

Frankel's Busy Store.

JUST A LOOK

Through our Carriage Repository will convince you of three important facts, essential that every buyer of a vehicle should be acquainted with:

FIRST,

That We Have An Attractive Line.

SECOND,

We have a Very Great Variety from which to select.

THIRD,

We buy for Cash and can sell Cheap-er on that 'count.

In addition to all this, we are handling makes of vehicles that we have dealt in for years and know their merit. Come and look carefully through our stock, upstairs and down, and it will end in our selling you just what you want.
